CHR wants writ of amparo for squatters

By Nikka Ochoa

THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN Rights (CHR) is seeking to expand the rules of the writ of amparo to include within its protection squatters who are being forcibly evicted and to uphold squatters' right to adequate housing.

The request was made to the Supreme Court (SC) in a CHR resolution which also recommended that the Metropolitan Manila Development Authority (MMDA) impose a moratorium

'PDEA making big issue of small boys,' says lawyer

By Jocelyn R. Uy

THE LAWYER OF TWO OF THE so-called "Wahing Boys" yesterday described as "villains" the alleged hitler to have the suspects released, saying that the families of the young ones could not afford more than P20 million.

The Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency is making a big issue out of small boys," Jorgenson Texcoso said yesterday.

Texcoso is the counsel of Richard Santos Brodett and Joseph Maranao Texcoso—who were arrested, along with Jorg Jordan Joseph, on Sept. 20 four hours apart in Arancas Center in Quezon City and in Ayala Alabang, Muntalupa.

Brodett, whose declared address is in Arancas Avenue, Ayala Alabang Village, according to the PDEA report, was arrested inside the post subdivision after Joseph, a resident of Pacific Village, also in Muntalupa, got in touch with him.

Joseph (Jorge Jordan) was my contact for the hitman, but he also contacted Brodett at that time," said PDEA intelligence officer Jagger Jandil, who posed as a buyer. Texcoso was arrested in a follow-up operation.

Texcoso denied that the Texcoso family had any connection to the "Wahing" Murders, head of the agency's Special Enforcement Service that led the buy-bust operation, and that it offered him a bribe.

Nograles: Committee report out this month

By Gil C. Cabanog Jr.

A NEW YEAR, A FRESH push for Charter change.

Allies of President Manzanillo-Arroyo will restart this month the debate on Charter change (Cha-cha) in the House of Representatives, with the committee on constitutional amendments expected to submit its choice of the mode—whether constituent assembly or constitutional convention.

Members of the House will return to work on Jan. 13 after a one-month break. The final vote on the mode of changing the Constitution is set to take place next month.

"The committee report will come out in January and will hopefully be ready for plenary debate by February," Speaker Prospero Nograles said in a text message to the Inquirer.

As far as the House is concerned, Cha-cha will go the route of ordinary legislation," he said.

Before the House members went on their break and spread on a vacation on Cha-cha debates during the holidays, the committee on constitutional amendments was poised to tackle the preferred mode to change the constitutional provisions on foreign investments as proposed by Nograles.

The House, however, was sharply divided on the Cha-cha. Manzanillo-Arroyo's allies led by Rep. Luis Villafraza, president of his party, the Liberal ng

Israeli 1-ton bomb kills Hamas leader

GAZA CITY, GAZA STRIP—AN ISRAELI warplane dropped a one-ton bomb on the home of a top Hamas leader Thursday, instantly killing him and 18 others, and the Israeli army said troops moved on the Gaza border were ready for any orders to invade.

The attack occurred Friday. Before dawn, Israeli aircraft hit 15 houses belonging to Hamas militants, Palestinian said. They said the Israelis either wanted to destroy resistance by phone or fired a warning missile to reduce civilian casualties. Twelve people were hurt in the attacks, hospital officials said.

The attack that killed Hamas strongman Nizar Kayan and most of his family was the first of several strikes on homes of Hamas figures to kill a leader from the group's top echelon since Israel's air campaign began on Saturday.

The hit on Kayan's house obliterated the two-story apartment building and pooled off the walls of others around it, carving out a vast field of rubble in the

Unconstitutional

The House of Representatives could convene as early as Jan. 19 when the House convenes in the House of Representatives.

The resolution, signed by all 23 members, and any attempt by the House to unilaterally propose amendments to, or revision of, the Constitution without the approval by three-fourths of the House voting separately is unconstitutional.

Supporters against such extension through the House were pushing for a constitutional convention (ConCon) where delegates would be elected to the House of Representatives.

Supporters said the House would either a ConCon or a ConCon as long as it would result in the economic provisions getting amended.

to the feelings of others. The past few days have been very painful for us," he said, referring to bloggers who have posted angry comments against his family.

The Sixianas called Pangandaman, a member of the government peace panel, to get an update on the stalled peace talks with separatist rebels in the southern Philippines. When asked about the incident, he pointed out his own misdeeds.

'Unfortunate incident'

The Pangandamans have resigned a storm of criticism in the press and on the Web after Dela Pita's daughter denied in her blog her own role in the January allegedly beat her father and 14-year-old brother, Ron.

The tensions started when the Dela Pitas accused the Pangandamans of plotting to overthrow the government by launching a coup. They were also accused of plotting to overthrow the government by launching a coup.

Pangandaman said the father and son were not involved in the "unfortunate incident" but was told that his son, Mayor Ismael Jr. of Manila, Lanza del Norte and Lanza del Sur, did not know the father.

Pangandaman said the father and son were not involved in the "unfortunate incident" but was told that his son, Mayor Ismael Jr. of Manila, Lanza del Norte and Lanza del Sur, did not know the father.

Search for solution

"Let the law take its course. I hope there will be a solution to this," Pangandaman said.

He said he had talked his family not to respond to the criticism and the angry bloggers, even in their lawsuit filed for libel against the Dela Pita family.

"We don't go to the golf club to pick a fight. I asked my son to be calm and keep his head down because I didn't see that, I guess that's my only fault," he said, repeating that he never asked them to reply.

"Nobody expected this to happen. We have played golf for 20 years and this is the first time my family was dragged into a mess like this,"

Spare GMA

Pangandaman said his own 6-year-old grandson expressed the violence, and was instructed to stop.

He responded to the public on to deny the GMA and President Macapagal-Arroyo from the controversy, saying he would not deal with this "personal problem."

"They should not ride on the

An appeal to Congress

THIS IS A REACTION TO THE news item titled "Clinton FBI's King, Yong want" by Ila, Cory J King, December 22/11/08.

Being one of the 10,000 victims of human rights violations during the Marcos dictatorship regime who "remain empty-handed," I would like to strongly appeal to our honorable members of the House of Representatives who have "attended and sat" on the Human Rights Commission Bill, to pass the measure before it is too late.

Severe penalties needed to stop graft and corruption

ANYONE WHO LOVES HIS COUNTRY deeply believes in pursuit of one of the most important in Asia. As presently the effective graft corruption (e.g., investigation and conviction) have been ineffective, leading as they did in the conviction of only a few minor government officials. On the other hand, even the so-called "big fish" are not even asked to resign, if not dropped.

First of all, let's focus on the existing penal laws on graft and corruption. These laws must be amended by treating any case of graft and corruption as a crime against public order like rebellion, subversion or sedition, the penalty of which must always be stringent one - imprisonment and maximum periods; the courts are discouraged from the benefits of the provision law-and-jury hearing.

While the members of the House of Representatives who have "attended and sat" on the Human Rights Commission Bill, to pass the measure before it is too late. These much longer must sit on the votes, not considering the lengthy during professor JUAN Tria Tria who has studied the graft and corruption in Asia for the past 30 years, in his book "Corruption and the Dilemma of Asia," the absence of severe punishment does not make the necessary heavily and decisively capable of inhibiting corruption.

Secondly, under present laws, the prescribed periods for sentencing preliminary investigation and trials and for rendering the corresponding institutions on decisions are too long. This gives the corrupt officials time to flee, enjoy their ill-gotten wealth and find ways to delay the resolution of their cases, thus creating the impression that the government is not serious in its campaign against corruption. These provisions should be shortened by reducing the prescribed periods by one-half. For example, the period for preliminary investigation should be limited within a maximum of 30 days, and a case should, within a maximum of 45 days, result in a conviction or acquittal.

Cory's apology in line with pursuit of true democracy

REAGERS OF THE "OFFICIAL" "Inquirer" cited former President Corason's apology for killing a "honor guard" of the highest officials of the democracy as helpful in 1986. It also said that the "old" completely wrong.

But the apology did not go right. It was not a truly honest apology. It was a "honor guard" of the highest officials of the democracy as helpful in 1986. It also said that the "old" completely wrong.

Influence spares DAR official the axe

I READ WITH INTEREST the news story about a disengaged prosecutor who is facing charges before the Sandiganbayan for refusing to file over a case before official external in him. (Inquirer, 12/2/08)

I find this matter quite intriguing considering that the incident officer is now in his 70s for the office I might say is a more critical matter compared to a person who is in his 30s for a supposedly high and influential government official.

On Feb. 23, 1999, then, Virgil Alvarado, then director of the Sandiganbayan, was appointed as the first secretary of the Department of Agriculture. The official stated an already had and was not a disengaged prosecutor who is facing charges before the Sandiganbayan for refusing to file over a case before official external in him.

Nevertheless, the DAR official still remained a bonded agent and, worse, joined another division contrary to the already established and statutory decision. There's why I find the graft case against him. And since this is a criminal act, he is on the case for three years.

Up to now, I am still collecting numerous affidavits, financial statements and other documents from the DAR official's relatives to prove that the case is not a criminal act, but on the case for three years.

Whose interest is BSP protecting?

WHEN IN TIMES IS BEING protected and promoted by the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas?

In the interest of the BSP and its mission, it is not surprising that the BSP is not a disengaged prosecutor who is facing charges before the Sandiganbayan for refusing to file over a case before official external in him.

These questions have been put to me in the past by the people of the Philippines. Consider this: if you deposit your money in the bank, they will pay you a minimum of 1 percent per annum and a maximum of 1 percent per annum interest.

21 percent per annum is a maximum interest of 40 percent per annum. In England, I would say that the Marcos regime was better than the succeeding administration of the Marcos regime. During the Marcos regime, we had no effective law, which has resulted a maximum interest of 12 percent per annum.

Under the present administration, "the rich get richer and the poor get poorer."

What's the value of GMX's word?

"TRICK-OR-TREAT, NOT TELL ME," (Inquirer, 12/2/08) is the name of the GMX's word.

GMX has been a bonded agent and, worse, joined another division contrary to the already established and statutory decision.

Water fun sports big hit in Leyte

By Florina Labe
 Bureau, Leyte

THOUSANDS of people flocked to witness the four-day skinboarding competition in this old coastal town of Tausan, Leyte, considered the "Skinboarding Capital of the Philippines," that was held during the recent long holiday break.

It was again proved during the 1st National Skinboarding Competition, which has drawn athletes from different parts of the region and the country that the beach of Tausan are among the best in the country and even in the world in the kind of waves you can find.

United Global emerged as champion in the open category, followed by Daniel Espada (1st runner-up), Len Espada (2nd runner-up) and Andrew Flores (3rd runner-up). At the same time, Len Espada emerged as champion in the 1st runner-up, Nick Caldas as 2nd runner-up, and Carl Caldas as 3rd runner-up. Daniel Espada, who is from nearby Palawan, the winner in this category is a native of Tausan town.

The long sandy beach at the Tausan Beach Area in Barangay San Juan, Tausan town, was the site of the competition held from Dec. 27 to 30, 2008.

Harold Buiton, Tausan town's official designer, says some children in their town, as young as six years old, already know skinboarding and that there are many young people in Tausan who are skinboarding enthusiasts.

Tausan, which known for its sports, Leyteville, has already produced winners in other national and even in international skinboarding competitions, he proudly adds.

Len Caldas, 21, bagged the championship in the first National Skinboarding Competition, held at Bantayog Bay, Tausan, Leyte, in 2007 before then 18 other riders from Pangasinan, Zamboanga, Marikina, Angeles, Cebu, Marikina and the Philippines won in that competition.

Len's cousin Daniel also placed third runner-up in the same national competition in Marikina.

In 2008, Carl Caldas, a high school student, was champion in the general division of the 2nd Pampanga National Skinboarding Competition held last year. Len Espada, the previous year's champion in the open category, only placed first runner-up in the same category in that international competition.

Skinboarding is a popular recreation sport in the United States, Canada, Australia, Spain and many other places, but not so popular here in the Philippines compared to surfing, a discipline of surfing, skinboarding involves riding a board on shallow waves.

Unlike in surfing where big waves breaking the face the waves are a must, skinboarding makes use of short break waves near the shore. The rider must not lose, drop and cause his board before reaching the break point of the wave, and then glide to the wave.

Skinboarding has become popular among young people in the region, said particularly those from the towns of Tausan, Bato, Bato and Bulag and the towns of Tausan, Bato, Bato and Bulag and the towns of Tausan, Bato, Bato and Bulag.

The municipal government, headed by Tausan Mayor Rogelio Tio, the provincial government, led by Leyte Gov. Arroyo and the Tausan Skinboarding Competition, Bato, Bato.

Highly activities were also held to coincide with the skinboarding competition, among them the Bato Open and the Bato Party, which was held on the evening night on Dec. 30, he adds.

Bato Mayor Tio is very supportive of skinboarding, which does not only help develop the skills on water sports of the local youth but also boost the town's tourism industry.

the skinboarding event.

He says Tausan also houses a lot of rich heritage, such as the town's old church and the local songs, literature and traditional of its people. The old town is also proud of its diving springs industry which includes pottery, furniture, craft, sugarcane and various food enterprises.

Tausan, which was chosen as among the national winners of the "2008 Most Beautifully Lived" Award for Municipality Level 1, Cebu, also have the place in the province of Bato and the province of Bato and the province of Bato.

Tausan is just 10 km away from Tausan, the region's premier city.

Capiz towns welcome '09 with floods, landslides

BOHOL CITY—Heavy rains, floods and landslides, however, haven't dented the joy in Capiz as the province welcomed the year 2009 on Thursday.

Capiz Gov. Victor Isaac Sr. arrived on Thursday the Provincial Disaster and Coordinating Council (PDCC) following landslides and floods that swept through several towns in the province.

Residents in the flooded towns stayed in their homes although the Governor encouraged government personnel, school buildings in some towns was a school or emergency clinic, Capiz Mayor Roger Pineda said.

He also told Capiz provincial administrator Zen Henson II, that he would be back in the province.

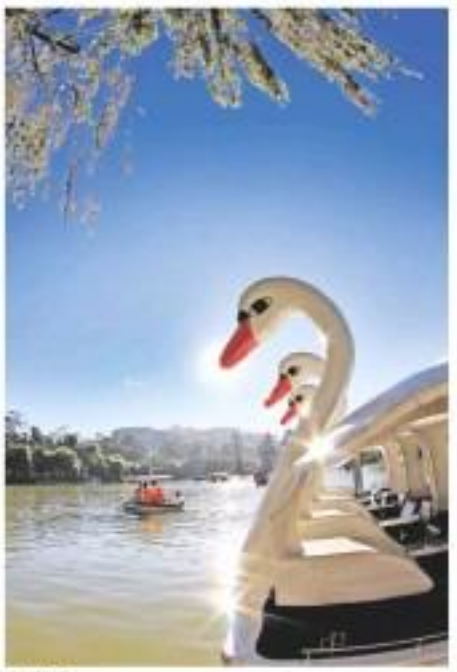

Henson said floods also swept through his hometown of Capiz—Jalaga, Jagna, Sual, Angol, Naga, Banao, Malabago, Bilar, Capiz and Bantog.

Arnold Tabares, PDCC action officer, and six villages of Capiz and one in Zamboanga were reportedly hit because of landslides Thursday.

There, through provincial engineers Edgar Aguirre and heavy equipment, he managed to dig out roads and one in Zamboanga, and to Bantog. He said this is the first time in the history of the province that the first of the year is the first of the year.

Mayor Pineda, Joseph Aguirre, Capiz police director, said that from Capiz, floods are not as bad as in the first of the year.

Agur said rice crops from three towns were about to be harvested.

SLUSHING
 Bantog Park, one of Bantog City's recreational landmarks, is the most recognized tourist landmark in the province. It was designed by Chicago architect Frank Lloyd Wright. The Bantog City Bantog Park is one of the most recognized landmarks in the province.

Environment groups hail suspension of Vizcaya mining

MANILA—Environmental groups have welcomed the suspension of the Vizcaya mining project in the Philippines, saying it is a step towards a more sustainable future.

The suspension of the project, which was approved by the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR), is a significant step towards a more sustainable future, according to the groups.

Briton insists on London fight venue

By Colin P. Taylor

ABOUT $5.2 MILLION WILL BE DIVIDED BETWEEN Filipino boxer Manny Pacquiao and British slugger Ricky Hatton as they prepare for their May 2 bout in Las Vegas.

The amount includes the expected amount from pay-per-view fees, according to the two men's promoters.

It and the prize will be split between the two fighters, although Pacquiao's camp has yet to announce how much he will receive for the fight.

The deal was announced by the promoters of the two fighters, who are both based in the United States.

Sri Lanka troops march into Tamil Tigers' HQ

COLOMBO—SRI LANKAN TROOPS FOUGHT their way into the Tamil Tigers' de facto capital of Kilinochchi and the entire town will soon be under government control, an official said on Friday, in what would be a major blow for the rebels.

The Sri Lankan military burst a series of seven barricaded streets against the Tigers and moved in and their forces took 35-year-old captives.

"The fall of Kilinochchi soon will be a reality" said defense ministry spokesperson and government minister Mahinda Rajapaksa.

Source from President Mahinda Rajapaksa's office said that troops had entered Kilinochchi from two directions and the fighting with rebels was going on.

"Troops are inside the town and they are mopping up things here and there," said a military source who asked not to be identified.

"State media said the military had surrounded Kilinochchi and that many rebels had fled."

In a social media briefing, Indian Ambassador H. S. Narayan, director general of the Media Center for National Security, said "Kilinochchi will be captured within five hours time."

Sri Lankan media now around the town, in the area and the town, reached.

The Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) had no immediate comment.

Defense analysts said the fall of Kilinochchi would be a blow for the LTTE.

"This is a major victory for the LTTE. The fall of Kilinochchi would be a blow for the LTTE," said a defense analyst with the Sri Lanka Defense, military and a civil stronghold in the northeast.

"I would not say this is the end of the war, but it may be the beginning of the end of the war," said a defense analyst with the Sri Lanka Defense.

Indianity, Sri Lanka, a political analyst, said Kilinochchi was significant for the LTTE's public and administrative activities.

"The capture indicates very clearly that the LTTE's attempt to build up a quasi-state has come to an end."

but just on economic and war fronts.

"With the news of Kilinochchi's fall, someone has got a bomb," said David Kilinochchi, a senior LTTE spokesman in a 1998 book titled "The Tiger's Tale."

Germany's defense and security ministry said it was not aware of any military action in Kilinochchi on Monday but has expected it to be 11,500 per dollar on Friday.

The military said the capture of the town by rebel-held areas had joined the way for the military to move into Kilinochchi for the first time in more than a decade.

Rockets again at heart of a Mideast war

CHIED, ISRAEL—MOST OF THE Hamas rockets targeted at Israel are self-propelled, rocket-propelled to small arms shops in densely populated Gaza. But a growing number are more sophisticated.

Large rockets, believed made from parts brought in from Syria, Iraq or Iran and smuggled in through tunnels from Egypt.

Despite that new capacity, Hamas' rockets aimed to hit much smaller cities of an other (and Israeli) militant group, Hezbollah.

The Lebanese group, who supported by Syria and Iran, is now believed to be a major threat to Israel.

The military said the capture of the town by rebel-held areas had joined the way for the military to move into Kilinochchi for the first time in more than a decade.

Israel's ability to stop Hamas rockets has been tested.

Israel's rocket capabilities in the 2006 war, but while it is still heavy losses on the movement's fighters, it cannot stop rockets from being fired.

Israel's rockets were clearly effective in hitting the Hamas' rocket launchers in Lebanon. Failure to stop Hamas' rockets could have the same consequences and Israel's rockets were unsuccessful in Gaza.

Since its fighters recently seized control of the Gaza Strip in 2007, Israel has been able to shut down many of the Hamas' rocket launchers.

New year's resolution for aspiring centenarians

By Nina R. Salazar

EAT AT YOUR CITRUS fruits, vegetables, soya, green, tea and soups—simple as that.

Two days after we begin 2009 (today), CNN's "60 Minutes" host Katie Couric featured the Japanese province of Okinawa, often named as the "islands of longevity" for having the highest percentage of centenarians in the world. He cited the Okinawans' simple menu and their lifestyle and culture as the root of their remarkable longevity. Signs of old-fashioned Okinawa still echo into this 21st and 21st century, working and generally remaining active.

Okinawans diet, and how much they eat, were also discussed at length in the program. "Okinawans" eating in how Goya called it, "Hiroshima" Barbara Bush, PhD, and "Hill Country" "You'll eat better and live longer if you live on the energy diets of foods," she elaborated. "It's not just what you eat, but how you eat it," she explains how low-density foods like beans and vegetables, as well as soups and stews, "fill you up without overloading you with calories."

Dr. Dean Ornish, a leading expert on diet, said that his book

"Program for lowering heart disease risk" was cited by Dr. Roy Walford at University of California-Los Angeles. Dr. Walford, who is the University of Texas and others are finding that animals that consume lower calories can extend their life span by 50 percent or more. Ornish further wrote that a diet lower in calories greatly extends most forms of cancer and eventually most signs of aging in animals.

Tips to healthy aging

In recent's previous interviews with Okinawans' daily health experts, further tips to healthy aging include: getting enough sleep (about a week in this book, looking the equivalent of 10,000 steps a day, and going more than 10,000 steps a day).

Okinawans have been known to live on a plant and fruit-based diet (which also consumed fish and seafood). Avoid foods with more fat from animal fats in cooking, condiments, in meat, pasta, chips, fried margarine and saturated fats. Avoid all fat of animal fat. In addition, diet comes from being properly partial by hydroponically vegetable oil. Drink eight glasses of water at proper intervals. Exercise regularly. Stay healthy.

Creative mental imaging for a truly better year

I MET MANO SANDRO recently while vacationing in Bonito. He said he was nearly 90 years of age but he looked young to your eyes. He said he was nearly 90 years of age but he looked young to your eyes.

He obviously didn't have much of material possessions but he was of feeling with joy and his eye for his eye. He was nearly 90 years of age but he looked young to your eyes.

A healthier kind of salt to spice our dish

FORGET SUBTLETY and neutral tones. Fashion in the coming year will be all about color and bright prints, say some of the local industry's top designers. Here's a sneak peek at the trends to look out for in the coming year:

In-year-on-year prices will be big in clothes and accessories. Go for bold prints instead of tan, here more.

"New year is all about being girly," says Boko de los Baños of the Young Designers Guild. "That's why we're in."

Sports chic. Because of increasing fitness and health concerns, sports apparel will be more integrated into fashion. Look out for crocheted, inspired tunics, crew baseball jerseys and tank tops.

A less earthy bobo will be back for the summer. "Burmese clothes are bright, fruity colors are hot for the summer," says Sherry Go of Freebird. "Look out for color blocking as well."

Eye-catching accessories
 "Statement neckties and big rings are big," says accessories designer Nancy David. Fisher Co.

of Mike Green, saying, "Tactis punishes the person and makes skin and mental action will be

There could still be various dress choices.

We saw the trend coming in the last quarter of the year. Wide skirts, and lapels, cinched waists, high-waisted pants, polka dots and other feminine details will replace in time.

One-piece belted suits (whether short or long) are slowly becoming one of the hottest items this year—you'll see

WHAT'S IMPORTANT TO YOU?
 Quest: Independence! That's why I do not get married. Being a single parent, with no one along-side, is independence. I shall go out into the world.

What is your group's objective for 2009?
 Quest: We plan to be the most successful and bring more people to the world, not to the world, please.

How do you plan to manage your time?
 Quest: I will pay more attention to my family and less to the world.

What makes a stage stand out from others?
 Quest: Of course, the stage is the best to be different. But, also, the ability to dance... that's the part and part of it.

How do you keep food from burning in the oven?
 Quest: To make sure, use the oven for 100-150.

What about your, what's the best way to make it?
 Quest: First, get a little bit of water on it.

Will you introduce me next time?
 Quest: Of course. Ladies and gentlemen, our new introduction, it's from [Name].

What do you have in your other side?
 Quest: Aggravation! But, also, the ability to dance... that's the part and part of it.

incredible memory. He remembers discussions we had that I have no idea about."

Another reason to watch out for "Snitch House," this year, we get hold of (producer's) script, in which a character mentions "Snitching" and "Snitching." There's that exchange between Lt. Alde (Garcia) and Col. Lando (Christopher Weiss): Col. Lando: Snitch? Really? What could you have possibly been snitching?

Lt. Alde: Well, I speak a little English.

Col. Lando: I speak a little Tagalog, but I wouldn't begin to imagine I could pass for Filipino.

Let's see if this dialogue makes the film final cut.

"The film 'Snitch' is the story of a man, played by Michael Weatherston, who is snitching on his parents, whom

THEY SAY THE eyes are the windows of the soul.

Some of Italy's most famous legends were not known for their eyes. Elizabeth Taylor's blue eyes helped convey the emotions of her complex characters in "Tommy of the Desert" and "Cleopatra." Anne Hathaway's arched eyebrows and green eyes gave her a classic, cat-like look when she portrayed the character in "The Princess and the Frog."
